

I am outraged by the Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary just days before the election. This is a perfect example of what can happen from media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. What Sinclair is intending to do is a flagrant departure from their responsibilities to the general public.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. There must be some accountability by media powers have such a large degree of access to the American public. Thank you.
